

Keep Mosquitoes Out Of Your HOME!

Invasive Aedes mosquitoes will lay their eggs in as little as 1/4" of water—even inside people's homes! Dump standing water inside and outside to prevent mosquitoes from biting you inside your home.

Decorations : Dump out water kept in vases or other containers weekly. Keep indoor fountains running or leave them dry.

Mosquitoes only need 1/4" of water!

Indoor plants: Dump out any water in house plant saucers weekly. Change out water for plants that grow in water like lucky bamboo weekly. Do not over water plants. Moist soil can attract fungus gnats—a harmless insect that is sometimes mistaken for a mosquito.

Things like pet bowls, drains, toilets, un-filtered aquariums, and dirty dishes do not usually breed mosquitoes but can if they are left full of water for more than a week without being changed or drained.
